Wonderful article and especially the photos! I really liked the interior photos of where my ancestral family of Gilmour's would have resided. Thanks.

Jeff Titelius said: (about Jupiter Lighthouse article)

I love lighthouses!! And what a fascinating history behind this one too! Loved your insights into the operations and your photography is brilliant. Thanks for such an awesome post.

Ageless GlobeTravels

A Website for the Independent Traveler

Ageless GlobeTravels has been providing travel inspiration, tips and reviews since 2009 and our site went live as a “Website for the Independent Traveler” in 2010.

For the last five years we have focused on Australia, Europe, Great Britain and United States, and we look forward to exploring more of the world in the future and adding to our ever expanding travel knowledge and resource database.

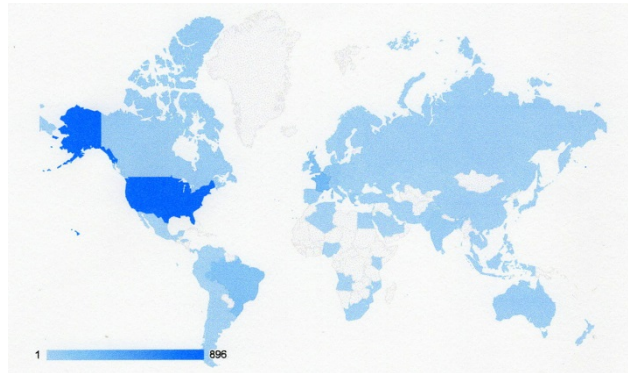

We feature in-depth travel essays for the arm-chair traveler and for those who wish to learn more about the sites they will be visiting during their trip or simply reminisce about past travels. Our essays also provide useful information regarding itinerary choices for trip-planners.

Our reviews of hotels and restaurants include only those we found either good or excellent. We simply do not include those we found unacceptable, so if a Hotel or Restaurant appears on our site, you can be sure we found it worthy of mention!

We include lots of professional quality photographs and fun video within our essays and reviews for the enjoyment of our readers because as you know.....photographs can be worth a thousand words.....especially in the travel industry!

While Ageless GlobeTravels is still a relatively new site, we are happy to announce that we are rapidly increasing our Usage Statistics, Audience Reach and Social Media Presence, month after month!
